4. One workman, a skilled locksmith, was paid 1,100 zlotys per month, plus 50% of the "Western Allowance," totalling 1,650 zlotys per month. Salaries were supplemented with bonuses, the extent of which depended on work carried out, so that the premiums were usually higher than the actual salary. During October this workman received 1,878 zlotys as his premium.
5. The workers were allocated food ration cards of the 1st Category. They also bought their railway uniforms, an overcoat and shoes, which were deducted from their salary; these articles were of very poor quality. A pair of shoes cost 226 zlotys.
